| | |
| How we think ethics are | |
| Vs. | |
| How ethics actually are | |
| | |
| | |

| | The teaching of ethics is fairly simple and straightforward, but it's | |
|---|---|--|
| | not the teaching of ethics that is | |
| | usually the problem. | |
| | | |
| | | |
| 4 | | |
| | | |
| | MORALS | |
| | | |
| | Beliefs about right and wrong conduct. They are often based on sociological conditions and learned behavior. | |
| | They do not require reason or consistency or | |
| | thorough analysis in their initial shaping or practical application. | |
| | | |

| | | |
| | | |
| 7 | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | VALUES | |
| | | |
| | The beliefs of an individual or culture which has an emotional investment attached. A set of values may be placed into the notion of a value system. Values are considered subjective and | |
| | vary across peoples and cultures. Types of values include ethical / moral values, doctrinal / | |
| | ideological (religious / political) values, social values, aesthetic values. | |

| | | |
| | | |
| | Ethics | |
| | | |
| | Consistent, objectively defined but essentially idealistic standards of behavior that tell us how human beings ought to act in their various | |
| | personal and professional roles. | |
| | Ethics are legal guidelines for professional behavior that are developed to protect the | |
| | profession, the professional, the client, and society | |
| | | |
| 11 | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | Ethics are NOT : | |
| | Feelings. Feelings might provide information in making ethical decisions, but they aren't the same. | |
| | Personal Values. Our values can change as our personal situations change. People can observe our values by what we do or say under various conditions. | |
| | Religious beliefs. While religious beliefs aspire to higher standards of conduct, they vary. | |
| | The Law. A good system of laws can incorporate ethical standards, laws can be corrupted. | |
| | | |

| FIL: NOT | |
|---|--|
| Culturally accepted norms. "When in Rome do as the Romans do" is not a satisfactory ethical standard. | |
| Science. Social and natural science can provide input for ethical decision making, but can't tell us what we | |
| ought to do | |
| 13 | |
| | |
| | |
| Critical Points to Remember | |
| There is a difference between personal values, morals and religious convictions and our Professional Ethical Standards. | |
| Ethical dilemmas that arise in the course of our work must be resolved by following the guidelines of our professional ethical standards or principles rather than our own personal standards or religious convictions | |
| Ethical dilemmas can be addressed in different ways | |

Balancing the Scales: Compassion Satisfaction

Compassion Satisfaction is about the pleasure we derive from being able to do the work we do. The compassion we experience in doing our work provides a sense of satisfaction.

Compassion Fatigue and Compassion Satisfaction can be seen as the positive and negative consequences of working with individuals who have experienced or are currently experiencing trauma or suffering.

A substantial amount of evidence suggests Compassion Satisfaction is an important part of the whole, thus increasing the significance of building resiliency and the transformation from negative to positive aspects.

Compassion Satisfaction can serve as a natural, protective tool against the negative aspects of our work.

| Self-care | |
|---|--|
| Take something off your plate and don't replace it with anything. Delegate at work and at home. Learn to say no (or yes). Balance your schedule: intersperse easy with hard. Seek more and regular support/supervision. Ask for what you need. Increase your spiritual or mindfulness practice. Increase your self-observations and self-awareness. Find a quiet and undisturbed time for yourself everyday. | |
| 49 | |
| Assess your trauma inputs. Avoid falling into a victim mentality. Create transition rituals Cherish your family and friendships. Attend education and training Engage in interests outside of your work. Add more movement and nourishment to your life. Engage in short term goal-oriented hobbies or sports. | |
| Guidelines for Self-care | |
| •It is not just a good idea; it is an ethical obligation. | |
| •Self-care plans are uniformly unhelpfulunless | |
| •Self-care should occur as often as you experience stress. | |
